

Amabella Understood

By Paula Puddephatt

Amabella did understand. Of course she did. Amabella always had.

She understood about Mum and Dave. She understood about that promotion at work, and could appreciate why it had been given to Joy instead. She understood about Christina, and why she had said what she had said about Amabella's relationship with Tom.

She even understood about Tom. About why he had left. About what he had seen in that...well, in Emilia. She did understand. She really did.

After all, she was Amabella. She always understood. It was simply the way she was, and what she did. Every single bloody time.